the Navy Department:

How, Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:
Have just received a letter from Lieut-Commander Broeze, dated at the mouth of the Black River, May 15. He writes as follows:

"This morning a bearer of dispatches from Gen. Banks was received at Fort De Russy, who ways when heleft one gunbant was coming over the falls, and it was currently believed that all would get over. He knew nothing more. I have information from a trustworthy source that the dam has been completed, and we may soon expect to hear that all the iron-clads are aver."

The Care of the Wounded. Washington, Friday, May 20, 1864.

John F. Stynot R. esq., General State Agent of New-York:
Sir: Having just returned from Fredricksburg, where I have been for ten days past, I take pleasure in answering your inquiries relative to the condi-

First, as to numbers, Dr. McFarian, Medical Director that 19,000 would cover all the wounded since the movement of the army. From Dr. Dalton, Medical Director at Fredericksburg, I learn that at no time have the wounded in that city exceeded 6,000, and most of the time but little over 5,000. Of course these numbers are large, but far less than reports thus far would lead us to suppose.

As to the care of the wounded, at no time have the As to the care of the wounded, at no time have the wants of the wounded been more promptly met by the Government and the various commissions. If there has been suffering among the wounded at Fredericksburg from want of supplies, as there undoubtedly has, it has a risen more from want of knowledge how to procure them and from lack of medical officers that from any deficiency in supplies. My hospital of 120 patients was opened on Wednesday. May 11—among the first of those by civilians—and from an hour after the entry of the wounded they have not wanted for all necessaries and luxuries. Each day all the men have had coffee beef tea faring milk punch several times, soft bread and butter, and solid rations in abundance to those who could take thum. In my judgment, the great want there at present is young men as drossers, or young physicians who will go through the long service of these sing wounds and attending to the minor wants. Of more nurses there seemed to be an ample number. Few liressing wounds and attending to the minor wants. Of more nurses there seemed to be an ample number. Few twillians will continue uninterruptedly to perform the actual labor necessary for this purpose, and a liberal de-tail from the army has been made. In addition to the abundant medical and other supplies furnished by the Government, the various commissions and State agenabundant medical and other supplies farmissed of the Government the various commissions and State agen-cies are on the ground doing all in their power. The volunteer surgeons sent to Fredericksburg by the Gov-stroot of New-York have been some of the most tal-anted and experienced in the profession, and in number avocading that of any other State. volunteer surgeons sent to been some of the most ta-grnor of New-York have been some of the most ta-grated and experienced in the profession, and in number acceeding that of any other State.

Sketch of Howard, -Joseph Howard, ir., was born in the City of Brooklyn, and is a son of John T. Howard Dutchess-2. John N. Cramer, John G. Halsted, a very respectable gentleman, now living in that city. The subject of this sketch commenced his literary caree as a contributor to country newspapers, then as a correspondent of The Boston Daily Journal, subsequently a a correspondent of The Boston Atlas and Bee. In 1852 erett Clapp. 2. Benson Ferris, jr., John J. Clapp. he took charge of the firemen's department of The David W. Miller. 3. Hezekiah D. Robertson, David Leader. At the time of the shoemakers' strike in Lynn. Mass., he was employed by The New York Times to write Orange County-1, Joseph M. Wilkin, James W. the account of that movement. On the arrival of the Taylor and Jeremiah Drew; 2. C. M. Lawrence, Wm | Prince of Wales in Canada, and during his tour through this country. Howard accompanied him as a special Sullicen County-H. K Low, John H. Divine and correspondent. He was with President Lincoln at the time of his tour from Springfield to Washington, and wrote the hear story in relation to Mr. Lincoln's escape 'in a Scotch cap and long military cloak," a statem which had not a shadow of truth in it. For a short time he was employed by THE TERRUNE as a correspon but was never, as has been stated, the city editor of this Holborn, London, England. fournal. "About sixteen months ago he was' appointed city editor of The Times, a position which he hold but a few months, when he was employed by The Daily News, and wrote inflammatory articles in relation to converse tions with workingmen, at the time of the draft and just before the July riot. He was afterward employed by the proprietor of The Brooklyn Eagle, and was city oditor of that paper at the time of his arrest.

Howard is about 35 years of age, of medium hight has dark eyes and hair, is rather bald, is pale and slender, with regular features, and wears a mustache.

The examination of Howard and Mallison showed that the forgery was perpetrated with a view to affect the money market. It appears that only two persons beside Howard were concerned in getting up the bogus proclamation. The purpose was to buy gold on Tuesday and sell it on Wednesday morning. Howard was arrested at his own residence, corner of Middagh and Willow streets, Brooklyn, and not at the office of The Eagle. He submitted to the arrest with comparative calmness, and, when taken to Gen. Dix's headquarters, made the confession which has already appeared in these columns. The statement that Howard is a mem ber of Mr. Beecher's church is not true, he having with drawn from that church when he left this country for California, a few years ago. He wrote the history of Plymouth Church for one of the Sunday papers, and not for The Independent, as stated in one of the dailies.
